WHAT IS BACK OF THE SEEN.

The following is a brief out-line of the excellent and weighty sermon preached by Mr. Cruzan on Sunday night:

The man who earnestly loves truth seeks it from every source. Whoever is afraid of scientific truth does not believe in God. We speak of two Testaments given us of God, but there are four: The Oldest, the Old, the New, and the Newest. The Oldest and the New are written. The Oldest and the Newest are unwritten. The Oldest tells us how the Seen came to be. The Newest continues the record of God's dealings with man since the sacred canon closed. The Oldest Testament is just as authoritative as the Old or the New. All history is sacred ground.

How did the Seen come to be? We must go, not to the Old, but to the Oldest Testament for the answer. Science, reading its pages backward, leads us to the point where we stand upon the glowing crystals of a newly-formed world—a world without any form of life. But this is only a few of the first chapters in this Oldest Testament. Chemical Science takes these glowing crystals on which we stand, and reduces them to their original atoms—they become a liquid mass. Science tells us that this was the primal condition of the Universe; that out of this the Seen came to be. Standing there, looking out upon this liquid mass of atoms, we ask, "How did the Seen come to be?" Science is ready with her answer: She says that each atom floating there at our feet, is the home of certain definite forces, which will unerringly, and without a shadow of variation, determine its alliances, and necessitate its combinations forever; that these atoms combined and re-combined through countless ages, and thus at last, the Seen came to be. We accept the fact of matter and its inherent forces, but we ask Science, "Whence came matter? Who clothed it with these wonderful forces? Who guided and directed them so that they combined and re-combined upon a plan, at last produced this Seen, this Universe of ineffable skill and beauty?" So far from accounting for the Seen, they are an included part of it, which needs to be accounted for. They are a cause of the Seen, but not the cause—that lies back of them, controlling, guiding, and working them on an intelligent plan.

Listen to what Science tells you of life, if you would have an apt illustration of the absolute necessity for a guiding intelligence back of these natural forces. All living organisms consist of three parts: nutrient matter, germinal matter or bioplasm, and formed matter or tissue. Only one-fifth is really alive, the bioplasm. "All life is from bioplasm," has been the teaching of Science since 1860. Put living tissue under the strongest microscope: You will see little cells, and within them a transparent, colorless, glue-like, apparently structureless substance. That is a bioplasm. Under all the tests known to science it is the same in the animal, the plant, the sponge, and the brain. Into every cell there flows a stream of dead, nutrient matter; the bioplasm seizes upon it, and by a process of which science knows nothing, and cannot imitate, converts it into living matter, and pours it out of the cell. This little colorless, vital thing in the cell, is the sole means by which every kind of living thing is made, has been made, or will be made. The bioplasm has the power of motion; the power of self-subdivision—throws off new bioplasms, and each has the same powers as the original. They are tireless workers. Each has its own work and will do no other. One weaves nerve, another muscle, another bone—but by no force, or process can the muscle-weaving bioplasm be made to weave bone, or nerve—and yet, under the microscope, they are exactly alike. They not only weave in straight lines, but, in the case of some nerves, spirally around other tissues, as your vine winds around the trellis. More wonderful still, in some cases they weave the tissues together, inter-lacing them, as the weaver does the threads in the loom, and like the weaver, they weave upon a pattern, by a plan, so that at the last, there comes as the result of their weaving yonder a plant, flowering in beauty, above you a bird cleaving the air, and here as the crowing master-piece, man with all his wonderful mechanical complexities of body, and intellectual and spiritual capacities. Now believe, if you will, that that little glue-like substance in the cell there, from its inherent forces is able, unaided, to do all this, but never thereafter sneer at Christians about "blind credulity," and "boundless faith."

We accept evolution as a fact. We simply differ from the materialistic evolutionists in holding that back of all these inherent natural forces, there is a directing, guarding, controlling power. The best science of to-day is not materialistic, but theistic. With Agassiz, on Penikese Island, it kneels before that Power back of nature and nature's forces, and worships Him.

HILO.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the night of the 22nd we had a terrific thunder-storm, the lightning struck the telephone line in the vicinity of Hilo and damaged it to the extent of several hundred dollars. On the morning of the 23d the clouds rolled away and revealed Mauna Kea covered with snow for miles down its sides—a grand sight—and the first snow of the season.

The Hilo Library Association gave an amateur performance at the Court House on the evening of the 25th, which was well attended in spite of the very bad weather. The performance was a success, and was repeated on the evening of the 28th, to a good audience—about $150 was realized for the purchase of books for the Association. The tax-payers, native and foreign, held a mass meeting at the Court House on the 28th, and resolutions were passed, and ordered to be printed in both native and English papers, condemning the action of the assessor, E. Kekoa, in raising the taxes enormously—without justification—or giving notification to the tax-payers of having done so; also dissatisfaction was expressed at the Minister who appointed such a man.

The surf has been very high the past few days, and we hear that nearly all of Mr. Lidgate's new works at Kaiwilalilahi (near Laupahoehoe) have been swept away. This must be a great loss.

On the 26th the schooner Courser, Capt. Wm. Colby, arrived, 30 days from Port Townsend, with full cargo of lumber for Shipman & Bridges. Surf is still high, and Likelike obliged to go over to the Waianae side of the bay. We need our railroad—a northerly winter will convince the planters of this.

Hilo, Nov. 30th, 1882.

WEST MAUI.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The railroad on Lahaina Plantation will probably be in operation in about a month. Three schooners may be seen in the harbor to-day, discharging their cargoes of ties. The iron is nearly all on the ground. The mill has been running nearly two weeks. The cane looks extremely well.

The Anglican Chapel is undergoing repairs. No services were held in it last Sabbath, nor will there be any next. After that all will go on as usual.

Lahaina, Dec. 2nd, 1882.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS.

THEIR EXS. GIBSON and KAI crossed the Pali yesterday on trip round the island.

We notice that Mr. S. Nott is now showing quite a fine lot of new chandeliers.

Why can't we grow good oysters here? Is there anything in the climate to prevent it?

J. T. WATERHOUSE'S No. 10 Fort street Store is showing a fine display of Christmas goods. Call and see them.

THE Woman's Board of Missions will hold their regular monthly meeting to-day, at half-past two, in the Ladies' parlor of Fort street Church.

The verdict brought in by the Coroner's Jury on the death of the native at Kamoiliili was "died by poison administered by a person or persons unknown."

MR. D. W. Clark, jeweller, has on exhibition in his shop on Hotel street, a curiosity in the shape of a "cock pheasant" caught by himself in the mountains.

The locality on Emma street, which we described lately as being much infested with a drunken backdriver, is now patronized by a fiddle and a banjo, and every night the scene of a merry carnival.

THE Ladies of Fort Street Church are getting up a Christmas box for the lepers. Contributions may be sent to the church to-morrow and Friday mornings.

THERE is a very fine imitation marble bust of a lady in B. F. Ehlers & Co.'s window. What makes it remarkable is the beautiful lace with which its dress is trimmed.

We hear that efforts are being made to have Merchant street widened. This is a very good idea, but we want to know how it is proposed to be done, and who is to settle the bill?

SOME rules ought to be issued guiding the traffic in our streets. They are so narrow and the vehicles so numerous that it is a wonder accidents do not more frequently ensue.

MESSRS. Hackfeld & Co., the Agents of the P. M. S. S. Co., are now authorized to grant return tickets to persons going to San Francisco. The price up will be $75 as before, but the return journey will be made for $60.

A SERIOUS fire might have destroyed the town on Saturday night. At the old Globe Hotel a boarder went to bed, and before going to sleep put a small table with a lamp on it next his bed, and then put the mosquito net over it. After reading some time he fell asleep with the lamp burning, and only woke up to find his bed on fire, and his hands and face burned. By prompt action the fire was put out. How often, we wonder, have people to be warned about falling asleep and leaving a light burning.

OPINION OF AN EMINENT ARTIST.

MR. THEODORE HAGEN. — The editor of the New York Weekly Review, one of the leading musical papers of this country, in speaking of the Colibri Piano, said: "It is much smaller and weighs considerably less than any square Piano Forte we have yet seen. It can be handled with perfect ease; at the same time it offers none of those ungainly aspects which some other alterations of the usual shape have presented. It is a thorough square Piano Forte, only very small, but at the same time very proportionate and beautiful—and can speak to such an extent, with such power and sonority, that we must see, as well as hear it, to believe it possible. Here is truly 'a great soul in a small body.' Throughout the scale the tone is even, very full and sonorous, brilliant and melodious; the action is easy, and the workmanship indicates great care on the part of those who were intrusted with it."—These pianos are for sale at G. F. Wells' Music Store.

ANOTHER runaway on Sunday afternoon. A horse and buggy came along Queen street from the Waikiki end, between 4 and 5 p. m.,
and turned down Punchbowl street.
The wheels came in contact with a lamp post and were smashed. A few yards further on the whole capsized and became a total wreck. The accident resulted from the horse being left standing in the street
without anybody in the vehicle.
